

Data Overview

After collecting as much data, this group's results confirmed their hypothesis that biochar would significantly lower VOC emissions and be a beneficial solution for soil and air pollution. Their data highlights that 20 grams of biochar would be the most ideal amount for the 533 grams of soil that was used for this experiment, showcasing the most decrease of VOC emissions in the soil to be about 40% in just the first few days.

